Dearly beloved Christians! The joint pastoral letter of the German bishops, which was read in all Catholic churches in Germany of the 26th of June 1941, includes the following words: “It is true that in Catholic ethics there are certain positive commandments which cease to be obligatory if their observance would, unduly, entail great difficulties; but there are also sacred obligations of conscience from which no one can release us, which we must carry out even if it should cost us our life. Never, under any circumstances, may a man, save in war or in legitimate self-defence, kill an innocent person.” I had occasion on the 6th of July to add the following comments on this passage in the joint pastoral letter.

“For some months we have been hearing reports that inmates of establishments for the care for the mentally ill who have been ill for a long period and perhaps appear incurable, have been forcibly removed from these establishments on orders from Berlin. Regularly, the relatives receive soon afterwards a notice that the patient is dead, that the patient’s body has been cremated and that they can collect the ashes. There is a general suspicion, verging on certainty, that these numerous unexpected deaths of the mentally ill do not occur naturally but are intentionally brought about, in accordance with the doctrine that it is legitimate to destroy a so called “worthless life”-in other words to kill innocent men and women, if it is thought that their lives are of no further value to the people and the state. A terrible doctrine which seeks to justify the murder of innocent people, which legitimises the violent killing of disabled persons, cripples, the incurably ill and the aged and infirm who are no longer capable of work.”

I am reliably informed that in hospitals and homes in the province of Westpahlia lists are being prepared of inmates who are classified as “unproductive members of the national community” and are to be removed from these establishments and shortly thereafter killed. The first group of patients left the mental hospital at Marienthal, near Münster, in the course of this week.

Dear Padre

October 13, 2019

What is a "doctor of the Church"?

Institutions of higher learning confer doctorates on those who make significant contributions to a particular discipline. Likewise the Church, as an institution of higher enlightenment, confers the title "doctor" on those who have significantly illuminated Christ to his disciples.

Doctor is derived from the Latin docere, "to teach." While all saints are recognized for their exceptional holiness, popes or an ecumenical council may bestow the honorary title of "doctor of the Church" to saints with exceptional wisdom and learning. These rare individuals have contributed profoundly to a greater understanding of the faith, making a monumental theological or doctrinal impact on the Church.

The Church has thirty-six doctors. Saint Gregory of Narek was the most recently named in 2015. Saints Ambrose, Jerome, Augustine, and Gregory the Great were the original four. Saint Thomas Aquinas (1225–1274) was accorded the distinctions "doctor angelicus" and "doctor communis" for his purity of life and clarity of thought that were thought to stretch beyond the confines of the human intellect. Saint Catherine of Siena (1347–1380) became a "shuttle diplomat" as she developed peace treaties between warring political factions in Italy in the fourteenth century. Saint Teresa of Ávila (1515–1582), whose feast day is October 15, remains the hallmark of those seeking to engage in a more mystical spirituality. Saint Alphonsus Liguori (1696–1787) was named a doctor the quickest of all, a mere eighty-four years after his death.

These doctors proved themselves to be trustworthy guides for both protecting and developing the great treasure that is our faith. —The Redemptorists
